COURT ADJOURNS MAGNER WILL CONTEST

Backus Steps Down As Electric Manager Norman Appointed

New Super is Given Power to Provide for Local Plant; Councilmen Change Rules for Payment and Consider New Ordinances During Lively Business Session.

Council gave its entire time and electric superintendent in conjunction to the electrical situation with the borough secretary being empowered to pay such bills and order such goods as cannot prudently await the meeting of council, and the borough treasurer was authorized to pay all bills recommended jointly by the electric superintendent and borough controller.

In his financial exhibit of the electric plant, Mr. Backus revealed receipts totaling $18,552.72, with disbursement amounting to $12,905.10, leaving a balance for the reserve fund of $5,647.32.

The inventory statement submitted by Mr. Backus contained this highly significant statement, showing what a boon electricity has been to Smethport:

"For the month of December the borough used 3,180 kilowatts, which at 2½ cents a kilowatt, amount to $79.50, which is only 50c more than we used to pay a man for just turning out the gas lamps."

Ordinances suggested which the law committee took under consideration were: The trimming of all shade trees to permit of at least eight feet clearance and permitting the borough to perform such duty and collect costs for same in the event of failure on the part of property owners. Demanding that the Bell Telephone company remove poles from Main street, between between Church-st. and the junction of East street and East Main street.

From the standpoint of work accomplished and information derived it was one of the greatest meetings in council's history.

HAMLIN-DIEGEL NUPTIALS PROVE BRILLIANT EVENT AT ST. LUKE'S, TUESDAY

St. Luke's Episcopal church was the scene, February the sixth, at noon, of one of the loveliest weddings of the season, when Mirabel McCoy, Hamlin, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Hamlin of this place, became the bride of Robert Adam Digel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Digel of Bradford. Rev. W. E. VanDyke performed the ceremony.

The bride were a white satin gown with a long train and veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She was given in marriage by her father O. J. Hamlin.

The flower girl, Miss Susan Hamlin, sister of the bride made a pretty picture in white crepe de chine, with white hat to match, and carried a basket of flowers.

The maid of honor, Miss Hannah Hamlin, a sister of the bride wore a charming gown of orchid chiffon, trimmed with lace of the same color, a black hat trimmed in silver and carried roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Helen Bouton, and Miss Grace Olmstead. Miss Helen Bouton wore a dainty flowered georgette gown and hat to match, and Miss Olmstead wore a ruffled rose colored satin, and hat of the same color. They carried pink roses and sweet peas.

The bride's mother wore a beaded corn flower blue georgette, with a corsage bouquet of violets.

The best man was Howard Digel, brother of the groom.

The ushers were Donald Bovaird of Bradford, Lester Taylor, Francis Bussey, and John Malcolm.

The bridal party marched down the aisle to the strains of Mendelsohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. W. E. VanDyke, who presided at the organ. The church was artistically decorated in palms and roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, and a delicious luncheon was served to the near relatives and intimate friends of the family.

Miss Hamlin is a graduate of St. Mary's Hall, Burlington, N. J. and is a very attractive and popular young lady.

Mr. Digel belongs to the S. H. Elder Oil Producing Co., of Coleville, and is a capable young business man, with many friends.

Following the reception the happy couple left for New York City, where they will spend a week or so. On their return they will reside here.

The Miner with a host of friends extends its hearty congratulations.

The out-of-town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Folger of Rochester, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mitchell of Erie, Pa., Mrs. E. R. Baker of Erie, Rev and Mrs. Chas. McCoy of Williamsport, Pa., Mrs. S. H. Rogers of Mt. Jewett, the Misses Brooks, Helen Costello, Norman, Costello, Frank Barry of Bradford, Mrs. Osterbrucks of Buffalo, and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Digel of Bradford, Miss Dorothy Eastman of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rose of Binghamton, N. Y.

POMONA GRANGE INSTALLS OFFICERS AT BIG MEETING SMETHPORT, WEDNESDAY

Pomona Grange, meeting in I. O. O. F. hall, Wednesday, proved a great attraction to many farmers of the county, who assembled to witness the installation of officers and listen to the discussions of interest on the program. T. E. Talbett, state deputy of Bingham, Potter county, assisted by Miss Anna McCarey of Turtle Point, Mrs. Tibbetts of Minard Run and Miss Beatrice Day of Farmers Valley, installed the officers, while Mr. Dawson of State College gave a talk on the Bull Association, illustrated by lantern slides, showing different types of bulls and cows.

The following deputies were appointed for 1923: S. Johnson, Kane, Frank Reeves, Smethport; Anna McCarey Turtle Point; H. J. Rice, Smethport.

Although the executive committee was requested to invite President Thomas of State College to deliver an address at the county picnic, the information was divulged that Dr. Thomas had already signified his willingness to do so and that acceptance of the invitation was certain.

A resolution was passed asking the state game commissioner to declare an open season on cottontail rabbits in order to save apple and maple trees from destruction, it having been ascertained that some 3,000 trees of the varieties named have been destroyed by rabbits the past year in McKean county.

The insurance committee recommended payment of $600 insurance on Liberty Grange hall, Port Allegany, damaged by fire recently.

During the evening session the team put on work in the fifth degree.

PAINFULLY INJURED.

John McDermott, suffered a painful injury, Monday, when he fell on the ice while endeavoring to drive a horse over the slippery streets. He fell on his elbow, injuring that member to such an extent that the services of Dr. Chadwick were required.

MRS. CHRISTINIA ANDERSON, NOBLE CHRISTIAN WOMAN, ANSWERS DEATH'S CALL

Anna Christina Anderson, one of the best known and most highly respected women in McKean county, passed away at her home in Clermont, Sunday, February 4, at the advanced age of 79 years, 7 months and 20 days. Surviving are her husband and two children, A. R. Anderson, of Clermont, recorder of McKean county, and Mrs. Anton F. Anderson, of Lynn, Massachusetts; one sister, Mrs. J. H. Peterson, and one brother, Ernesto Bengston of Brazil, South America.

Funeral services were conducted from the Swedish Lutheran church, of which the deceased was a consistent member, Wednesday afternoon, Rev. A. A. Wilfred of the Swedish Lutheran church of Mt. Jewett, and Rev. Arthur Gregson of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Smethport, officiating. Interment was made in the Clermont cemetery.

Anna Christinia Anderson was born in Holland, Sweden, June 14, 1843. She came to Wilcox, Pa., in 1870, where she was united in marriage to John W. Anderson, March 30, 1871. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson resided in Wilcox until 1874, when they moved to Corryville, Pa., in 1875, later removing to Clermont, which place they made their permanent home.

An exemplary Christian woman, a devoted wife and mother and a kind friend and neighbor, Mrs. Anderson was beloved by all who knew her, and her friends were legion. Her passing leaves many hearts filled with sorrow, yet with the knowledge that such a life as was hers was not lived in vain.

LET'S GET TOGETHER.

The Northwestern Good Roads association, advocating the construction of hard surfaced road between Smethport and Erie, recently held a big booster meeting at Warren. Counties to the east of here are doing a whole lot of agitating for completion of roads between Coudersport, Galeton, Wellsboro to Towanda. Seems as though somebody ought to do some agitating to get Port Allegany connected up with Eldred, Smethport and the rest of McKean County.—Port Allegany Reporter.

Battle for Eccentric Hermit's Properties Held Up Till March

Declination of Judge Bouton to Try Cause Followed by Surprising Action of Successor; Vast Throngs Attend While Trial is On; First Will is Found in Deposit Box.

Judge William E. Hirt of Erie, sitting in the Magner will case, adjourned court, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, until next month day and date to be determined later. In announcing adjournment, Judge Hirt stated that when he consented to come to Smethport, he had no idea of the magnitude of the case, on the contrary believing that it would require only a few hours or a day. When, however, after two days and one-half of constant grinding, he realized that the case had only begun, he considered adjournment necessary in order to preside over a session of criminal court in Erie.

Seeking to set aside the last will and testament of the late John Magner, eccentric recluse and miser of Gifford Hollow, in favor of Rev. Fr. J. Donahue of St. Elizabeth's church, Smethport, Johanna Boyle, Honora Boyle and John Driscoll, representing themselves as first cousins of the deceased, not only contend that a former will executed by Magner should be recognized as the legal document but that at the time the last will was written and signed, John Magner was of unsound mind.

On the other hand, attorneys representing Rev. Father Donahue, chief beneficiary of the Magner will, are seeking to prove that Magner not only was sound in mind, but that his last legal action was performed out of gratitude to one who had sought to guide him aright and who had not forsaken him in his last days.

The Magner will case, involving final settlement of an estate thought to be worth approximately $100,000, was formally opened for hearing Monday morning before Judge J. W. Bouton. Following presentation of the petition of the plaintiffs, Johanna and Nora Boyle, and John Driscoll, first cousins of the deceased, Judge J. W. Bouton concluded to retire from the case in favor of a non-resident jurist, his acquaintance with the parties at issue prompting the decision.

Because of the prominence of the parties involved, together with an almost unprecedented array of legal talent, the court room has been the mecca for the people of Smethport and vicinity throughout the week. They had come to witness a battle of wits and were not disappointed.

Monday afternoon witnessed the coming of Judge William E. Hirt of Erie, upon whose decision the fate of the estate in question depends.

In the petition the plaintiffs recite that the last will and testament of the late John Magner, who died at the county home, November 22, 1922, was offered for probate by Rev. Fr. P. J. Donahue; that the will named Father Donahue the principal beneficiary; that the estate consists largely of securities deposited with the Hamlin Bank and Trust company; the estimated value of which is believed to be in excess of $70,000; that taxes for the decedent's estate have not been paid and that time for same will expire February 26, that on information from the late John Magner, petitioners aver that he left a will which may be found among his effects, making other disposition of his property, and they affirm that said will never was destroyed or revoked by said Magner. Wherefore court is asked to appoint a proper person or corporation, wholly disinterested, as administrator, pending final adjudication for benefit of said estate and those by law hereafter determined entitled thereto.

The last act of Judge J. W. Bouton before retiring from the bench in favor of a non-resident jurist was to issue a subpoena for the Hamlin Bank and Trust company to certify to the contents of a safe deposit box rented by the late John Magner. Eager to learn the extent of the eccentric recluse's holdings, a large crowd assembled in the court room Monday afternoon, when Mr. Guy McCoy, assistant treasurer of the Hamlin bank, not only made known the extent of Magner's holdings in bonds, securities and checking account, but also produced a will executed April 1, 1897, in favor of his cousins, Johanna and Honora Boyle (nee Magner.) The will was signed by A. B. Armstrong and L. K. Hogarth, witnesses, also by Ralph E. Burdick, Mr. Burdick's signature as a witness having been appended in 1918 at Magner's solicitation because of the death of A. B. Armstrong.

The contents of the box in a financial way revealed: Kane school bonds, $19,000; Liberty bonds, all issues, $28,000; porkebook, containing certificates of deposit in banks, $22,900. All this, together with interest on bonds, will swell the total to approximately $50,000. According to Mr. McCoy, Magner had a checking account at the Hamlin bank of approximately $50.

The discovery of the will which relatives of the deceased recluse insisted was in existence, together with the manifest "shaving down" of that which was considered a $100,000 estate, occasioned great surprise to the large assemblage in the court room. The will of 1897 named three beneficiaries. First, Daniel Magner, brother of John Magner, who was to succeed to all the property in event of John's death, and second, Johanna and Honora Boyle, (nee Magner), who were to be made the beneficiaries in the event Daniel Magner preceded John in death.

In their efforts to prove their contention that John Magner was of sound mind throughout life and the time his last will was made, the defense called a number of witnesses who had known him for years, also Rev. Father Nolan, recently of Galeton, Pa., who has been a guest at the home of Rev. Father Donahue for several months past, and who, with Father Donahue, visited Magner at his home on several occasions during his last illness.

The testimony of Father Nolan revealed that he had written the will at Magner's request. Father Nolan declared that Magner had summoned him to his home for that purpose and insisted that the will be drawn up as it appeared. He also stated that no one was in the room at the time Magner made his wishes known and that Father Donahue had no knowledge of the hermit's intention until the will was read to him by the witness the afternoon of Friday following the Doors That Control Clocks.

The latest trouble-saving device is a clock that needs no winding. It winds itself automatically.

This invention stands to the credit of a firm in Hamburg. The clock is placed above a door, and the winding apparatus is connected with the door by means of a Bowden wire cable. Every time the door is opened or shut the wire pulls a small lever, which moves the winder of the clock.

A special device prevents the clock from being overwound, and it is claimed that if the door is opened only three times a day the clock will receive enough winding to prevent it from stopping.

With this arrangement it is quite possible, barring accidents, for a clock to go for centuries without being touched.

LOCK HAVEN—Not guilty, was the verdict in the case of Anthony Capello, local youth, accused of the murder of little Elizabeth Harley, school girl, following an alleged joy ride. The jury took 144 ballots. There was another couple in the car and when the auto hit a pole the girls were thrown out and hurt. The escorts carried them unconscious to a lawn and left them. The Harley girl was dead when found.

BRADFORD—John M. Shearon, 69, resident of Bradford for 46 years, died Thursday morning. Funeral services were held Saturday morning.

OLEAN—L. F. Evans, who lives at Bullis Mills on the Olean-Eldred road has a freak dog. The dam is a collie and the sire is a police dog. The freak is one of a litter of eight pups born last November. It has soft fur, round head, woodchuck body and cat's paws. It is a male and is a "scrappy" little creature, although very much smaller than its kin.

PORT ALLEGANY—The Coudersport and Port Allegany railroad has taken off three cars. Saturday night motors 16 and 17 and daily motor No. 9, leaving Coudersport at 6:20 a. m., will be discontinued. Shortage of motive power is the reason assigned.

ST. MARYS—Raymond Dippold Saturday morning killed a wildcat weighing forty pounds, probably the largest one ever killed in this country. The animal was killed in the vicinity of North Fork and is the third to be killed this winter by Mr. Dippo.

JOHNSONBURG—Death has doubly afflicted the Bayer household on First avenue. Where only a few days ago Mr. and Mrs. John Nicholas Bayer were in good health and spirits, they now are cold in death. The mother passed away after a short illness of pneumonia, followed only a few hours by the father, ill of the same disease. A double funeral was held Wednesday, interment being made in St. Marys.

PORT ALLEGANY — Joseph Moore and Clarence Hermanson represented the agricultural department of the local high school in the state-wide stock judging contest at Harrisburg last week. Joseph Moore won a ribbon for having tied for fifth place in the poultry judging contest. There were 200 other contestants who were winners of other contests in all parts of the state, so that fifth place made a creditable showing for the local contestant.

BRADFORD—A decline of 50 per cent in the number of arrests for drunkenness during January is shown by the police report. Arrests from all causes during the month were only 30 as compared with 55 during the previous month and only 12 arrests for drunkenness were made as compared with 24 during last December. This is the lowest number of "drunks" taken in by police in any month for sometime.

SHINGLEHOUSE—Ward Kendall Palmer, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Palmer, suffered a double fracture of the elbow in a fall at the basketball hall, Thursday evening.

SHINGLEHOUSE—A well informed oil man stated that the advances announced for crude oil were really only a starter and that within the next year or two prices will make a new high record. He pointed out that the increases in production recorded recently have been of heavy oil, such as that in the Smackover field, which is fuel oil, or in the California field where the transportation charges to the Atlantic coast are very high. The consumption is heavier than the production. High grade crude is becoming scarcer each day.

ELDRED—Fire was discovered in Sherer and Burr garage last Tuesday evening and prompt action on the part of the firemen prevented a serious loss. The damage was about $100.

COUDERSPORT—A $75,000 fire destroyed the roundhouse, four engines and various equipment of the Coudersport and Port Allegany railroad last Friday evening. Fortunately, the new gasoline car was stored in other quarters.

McKEAN COUNTY OIL DATA.

During 1921 oil was produced in nineteen counties of the sixty-seven counties in Pennsylvania and McKean county was the leader with a production of 2,364,280 barrels. McKean county stands second in the number of wells, with a total of 20,237. The greatest activity in oil development was found in McKean county where 645 wells were brought in and 156 abandoned. The average annual production per well in Pennsylvania was 11,683 barrels. —Bradford B. of C. Oil Sand.

"WISE OWL" DECLARES WILD MEN ARE COMMON; CITES FEW INSTANCES.

Mt. Jewett, Pa., Feb. 5, '23

Editor Miner: We (that is to say, a number of Mt. Jewett wise owls) object to your wild man story of last week. Not that it didn't ring true and in the main "call the turn," but because it was so late a-coming. The wonder of it is that you didn't get your facts before last week. Of course, it was a delicate matter to handle and considerable had to be left to your readers' imagination, yet, while you handled it all right, you were way off in some few particulars.

Let me say that the wild man referred to wasn't the only wild man that ever traversed this (or that) particular section of McKean county. Truth to tell, wild men have been so numerous during the past half year that common gossip have half year that common gossips have about them. We admit, however, that the wild dash of this last wild one—through snow and cold in nature's garb—did excite some interest. Of all the many fellows who have "beat it while the beating was good," his dash was the most spectacular. But the peculiar thing about all dashes on the part of all wild men to date is, they all dash from the same place, at different times, of course, and in various costumes. But it remained for this last wild man to make a dash without any costume.

The many narrow escapes experienced by the many wild men would put "Dare Devil Dick" to shame. That all are alive and well (in body, if not in mind) is due no doubt to their fleetness of foot animated by a power of marvelous propelling abilities. Maybe they're wise, if not sadder. But if they haven't learned a lesson to date, you, Mr. Editor, needn't be surprised to hear of more and more wild men.

HUNTER WHO MISTOOK MAN FOR WILD RABBIT ARRESTED AT DUBOIS.

Game Commissioner L. K. Hogarth visited DuBois this week, where he arrested John Gnan, charged with shooting Harold Bradshaw near Mt. Jewett, November 8, while hunting. It is alleged that Gnan shot Bradshaw by mistake for a rabbit and wounded him severely. The accused was arraigned before a DuBois magistrate and gave bond for his appearance before the February term of court in Smethport. The charge on which Gnan will be arraigned carries a stiff penalty—not less than one or more than three years in the penitentiary or a fine of not less than $100 or more than $500.

HEROIC SOLDIER BOY FIGHTING WITH DEATH GIVES OVER STRUGGLE.

Claude M. Heinlein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Heinlein of Smethport, passed away Tuesday, February 6, after a long illness lasting for several years.

He was born in Farmers Valley May 5 1897, and studied in the Smethport schools. In January 1918, he entered the service as member of Company L, 38th infantry, Third division, and in April was ordered across the water. He received two wounds in battle and the croix de guerre for bravery on the battlefield. He was gassed at Chauteau Thierry, July, 1918, and was never well from that time, although he received treatment at Mt. Alto Sanitarium, and New Haven, Connecticut. He was in France twelve months, and upon his return home began the long struggle for life, which ended Tuesday. He was a brave soldier, a patient sufferer, devoted to his family and he laid down his life for his country.

He was a member of the Buck Tail Post American Legion, Odd Fellows, Relief, Modern Woodmen of America and the P. H. C.

Those who survive to mourn his loss are his wife and daughter, Jane; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Heinlein; and brother, Fred Heinlein.

AGED WOMAN, SEEKING TO RESCUE HUSBAND, RECEIVES FATAL BURNS.

Mrs. Bates was well known, having conducted the Bates house at Ludlow for 35 years. Her husband has been an invalid for many months.

funeral. The will, the witness stated, was read to Father Donahue in the presence of John Driscoll, cousin of the deceased, who expressed disappointment over its provisions, stated in effect that he expected to be remembered by Magner. Father Nolan also stated that Magner gave every evidence of being a person of sound mind at the time the will was made.

M. S. Geary, Dr. Burt Chadwick, Supt. Taylor of the County home, were among others who testified to their belief in Magner's soundness of mind, although all declared him to be a very sick man during the three days preceding his demise. The testimony of every witness, however, having to do with Magner's mode of living proved conclusively that the old man lived in squalor almost, if not wholly, unparalleled. The witnesses also stated that efforts were made on the part of Father Donahue and Father Nolan to place Magner in the Bradford hospital or a similar institution, but that he preferred the County home, and that it was with difficulty they gained his consent to go there.

Attorneys Mayo and Mullin represent the palintiffs, while attorneys Wilson, Shattuck and Fitzgibbon represent the defendants.

DAIRY POINTS

Rules for Dairyman.

Always weigh the feed. Don't guess.

Avoid overfeeding. Overfeeding is sure to result in scours.

Be scrupulously clean. Clean pens, clean bedding and clean feed fed in vessels that are washed and sterilized daily are absolutely necessary.

Give the calves plenty of clean water to drink.

In feeding milk or gruel, use a thermometer; don't guess at the temperature.

Watch the condition of the calf's bowels. At the first appearance of scouring or offensive odor, reduce the feed and treat for scours.

Be regular in the various operations performed in caring for the calves.

Tie the calves up so they can be fed separately.

Give them as much exercise as possible.

GIVE CARE AT CALVING TIME

Few Precautions and Suggestions for Treating Animals During Delicate Period.

Even a poor cow is too valuable to be given careless treatment at calving time. A few precautions and suggestions for treating animals during this delicate period are offered by specialists from the dairy department of the New Jersey State Agricultural college:

In order to allow a cow a sufficient rest and a chance to put on flesh before calving, it is a good practice to have her become dry about six weeks before freshening. This seems to be nature's way of preparing her for the labor of lactation. A few days previous to calving if she is confined in the barn she should be given access to a well-bedded box stall.

During the last week if the cow is in the barn the grain mixture should be laxative in nature, a mixture of wheat bran and oats, equal parts, being excellent at that time. If the owner is able to calculate the exact day on which the cow is to calve, nothing is better as a feed than a bran mash. On calving day the cow will probably not eat much feed, but this need cause no alarm.

Although it is not necessary for the attendant to be present at calving time, he should be nearby to judge whether she needs assistance or not. Immediately after freshening the cow should be offered lukewarm water and a warm bran mash. The attendant should keep close watch of the cow after she freshens to be sure that the afterbirth is not retained. Should she still retain it 24 hours after freshening, an inexperienced man should call in a veterinarian.

Because the vitality of the cow is lowest at calving time she must be kept away from drafts. The ration for the first few days should be light, and if there is any inflammation in the udder, it is usually a good rule to take two weeks getting her on to full feed.

COWS IN HEALTHY CONDITION

When Freshening They Are Better Fitted for Year's Work in Production of Milk.

Cows that are in good condition when they freshen are best fitted to do their year's work in milk production. They start with a greater milk flow and milk longer than those starting their lactation period in poor condition.

COWS NEED FEED REGULARLY

Good Practice to Put Grain Portion of Ration on Silage—Cows Won't Eat Too Fast.

Cows not only require plenty of feed but they should be fed regularly for best results. In feeding, it has been found a good practice to put the grain part of the ration on the silage and this will keep the cow from eating too rapidly.

Grains for Poultry.

The principal grains fed to poultry are corn, wheat, oats and barley. Corn and wheat are the most popular, and both are well relished by fowls.

Lime Corrects Acidity.

Why lime the soil? Because it corrects soil acidity and enables clover, alfalfa and other legumes to grow better.

Cooling Tank Is Essential.

Every farmer who milks cows should have a cool
